ACCREDITED VS NON-ACCREDITED TRAINING

Accredited Training	Non-Accredited Training
The training material is aligned to the South African Qualification Authority (SAQA)'s industry standards (unit standards) which limits the customisation of the training topics.	Non-formal learning (adult learning) is structured and comprehensive learning but does not have to meet set out requirements by the industry. We will customise the training programme to your exact needs, including your internal policies and procedures. You also have the added benefit of using the accredited training material as a guideline or to provide additional reading material to your delegates.
Each training session is presented over a predetermined number of days. SAQA introduced the concept of credits related to 'notional hours' as part of a system of outcomes-based education. Notional hours are defined in terms of the amount of time it takes for the average student to achieve the learning outcomes. SAQA equates one (1) credit with ten (10) notional hours of learning. The rule of thumb for class-room training required is about thirty (30) % of the notional hours.	The period of these courses will be determined by your needs, the number of topics required and the level at which the training is pitched. This will be agreed upon with you.
Formative (in-class) and summative (post-course) assessments in the form of a Portfolio of Evidence are a requirement.	An assessment is not a requirement. We will customise an assessment for you, based on your exact needs.
Successful delegates are awarded credits towards a particular qualification.	Does not lead to a qualification but it provides you with practical knowledge that can be applied immediately in your workplace.
Accreditation is an indication that we offer high-quality training and have excellent policy and procedures in place due to implementing our Quality Management System which is a requirement.	Our non-accredited training is also supported by our excellent policies and procedures but not limited to them.
Successful learners are awarded a Certificate of Competence.	Successful learners are awarded a Certificate of Attendance. Should you require an assessment, we will provide you with a Certificate of Successful Completion.
Generally, accredited training is more expensive as this requires additional facilitation and includes extensive assessment and moderation costs	Less expensive, depending on your exact requirements and level of customisation required.
